We say Goodbye to the Primary Seven Leavers 2013

We celebrated the efforts and achievements of Primary Seven and had the chance to say goodbye with an end of term leavers assembly. Leavers earned certificates which were presented by our Head Teacher Vanessa Nabeta-Kibirige and Amos Wekesa our guest of honour. The event was a big success and everyone had so much fun. The students were at their best performing skits, songs and dances. It was a true celebration of all the talents we have here at Banunule.

Year Seven students write about their time at Banunule

Banunule has been my foundation and a strong one. I will never forget the school for the spirit of friendship, team work and the love of God that are part of everyday life here. I came to Banunule when I was only eight years old and I did not know how to read, write or even speak English. But now I am fourteen years old and have learned so much. I will never forget the teachers, friends and food at Banunule. I am taking away the care, love and friendship shown to me at this school and the unending care shown to so many other vulnerable children giving them a better life and a future. One day I also want to help people the same way I was helped. Now is the time for me to take another stepping stone.

I personally believe that I am taking away many things from Banunule Primary School. Banunule school has taught me to be confident, to take creative risks, to try new things, to live in community and to work together. I want to thank Banunule for for keeping me until I completed my Primary seven exams.

I am taking away from Banunule that I should try to be outstanding because it makes you different from others, many people will respect you and by being outstanding you set an example to others.

I am taking away from Banunule School the love and respect that is shown to all members in the school community. Banunule is a welcoming school and all visitors are welcomed here. The children here are shown respect and their rights are respected. I won't forget what I have learnt here. I have learned to have confidence. I know that I am not going to remain the same. Long live Banunule School!

Wow! A journey of seven years finally came to an end for the candidates of primary seven 2013.

I sat my Primary Leavers Examinations (PLE) on 4th and 5th November 2013. The day before I sat my PLE was a special in a way that many in East Africa got to experience, the solar eclipse. I was very happy because people from all over the world came to see it, with the best viewing spot being in Pakwach in Northern Uganda. After that event, the following day I sat the PLE exam. As we travelled to the centre to sit the exam, I had many thoughts in my mind. The bell rang and we were told to collect our index numbers and to present our identification. I started thinking about what would be in the paper. As the papers were given out I started to panic. I prayed to God to give me courage and strength! When we were told to start I could hardly hold my pen and write my name. After a few minutes I took a deep breath and gained my confidence to start writing.

A guardian of one of our Primary seven children reflects on how Banunule has changed her niece.

She says, "Today Achiro is a wonderful girl with good morals, as a school and staff you have contributed greatly to this behaviour. Achiro has excellent English vocabulary, she is hard working, has great talents in music, drama and dance. As a guardian I greatly appreciate you so much and thank you for work well done." We have had good teachers from the beginning to the end of the Year. They have worked hard to see that we do our very best. Miss Kirabo has taught us English and we have learned to be smart fto be organized. Mr. Nsubuga taught us Maths and he helped us to look beyond our circumstances to the future. He taught us well.

Mr Bulemya taught us Social Studies and he was very encouraging. Sometimes we did not do very well but he always reminded us that everything will change as we continue to learn.

MR Tembi was our class teacher and he was also a parent to us. He always gave us guidance and helped us to prepare for life after Primary Seven. I am sure this will help all of us as we leave Banunule.

Thank you for teaching us and helping us to finish well.
